Learning goals

- Describe what is in a lunch bag
- Have got forms and number words
- Count food items and containers accurately

1. When should I use have got and has got?

Use have got with I, you, we and they, and has got with he, she and it. Ask Have you got an apple? or Has she got water? Make negatives with haven't got or hasn't got. Keep this pattern separate from Do you have...?

Use has got with he, she and it.

2. Describe what is in a lunch bag

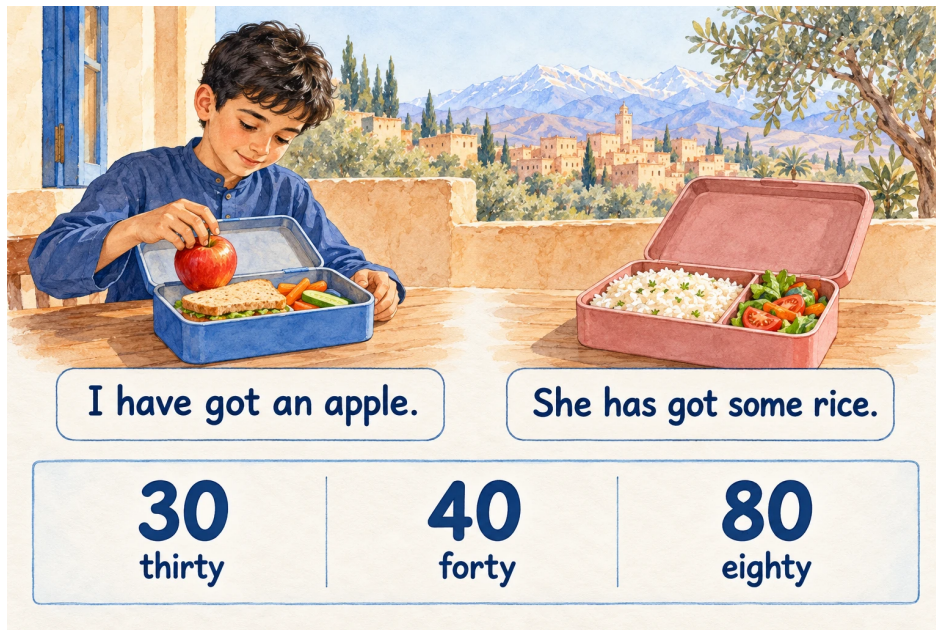

Use have got with I, you, we and they; has got with he, she and it. Make negatives with haven't got or hasn't got. Move have or has to the front for a question: Have you got a sandwich? Yes, I have. Has he got milk? No, he hasn't.

Bread, rice, milk and water are normally uncountable in these food meanings. Say some water or a bottle of water. Use a or an for one countable item: a sandwich, an apple. Number words include twenty, thirty, forty, fifty, sixty, seventy, eighty, ninety and one hundred. Write twenty-one with a hyphen.

3. Have got forms and number words

Full form or number	Short form or spelling	Question or example
I have got an apple.	I've got an apple.	Have you got an apple?
She has got some rice.	She's got some rice.	Has she got any rice?
30 / 40 / 80	thirty / forty / eighty	42 = forty-two

4. Read a complete lunch description

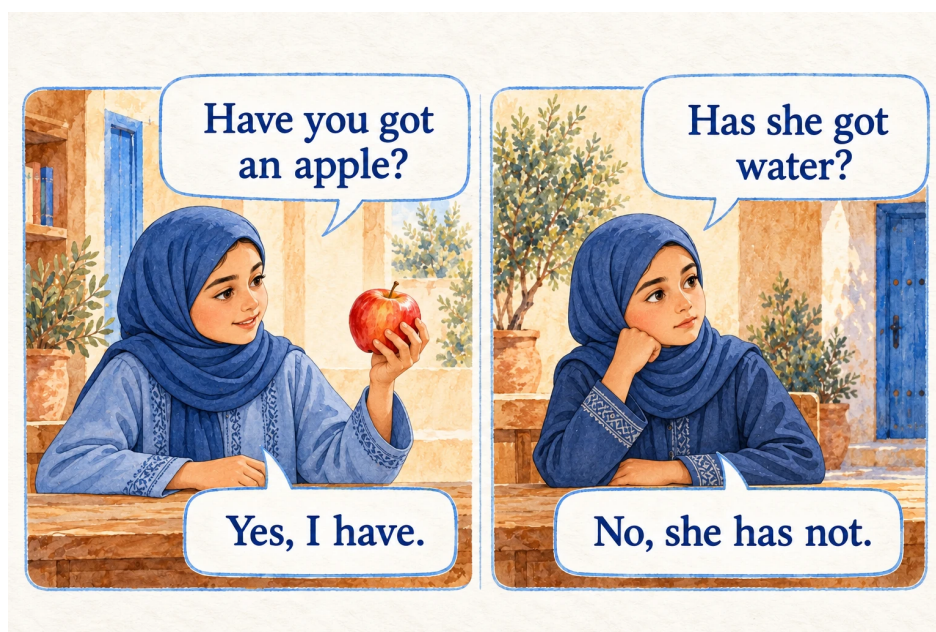

Ask Have you got...? and answer Yes, I have.

Read and explain this example

My lunch bag is green. I've got an egg sandwich, an apple and a bottle of water. My friend has got some rice. She hasn't got a drink. Our class has twenty-four lunch bags.

5. Count food items and containers accurately

A bottle is countable, but water is not normally counted as individual waters in this beginner meaning. You can say two bottles of water, not two water. An apple is one countable item, so two apples takes a plural s. This distinction makes a lunch description clearer: I've got two apples and a bottle of water. When reading a number, notice the ending: forty and fourteen are different words.

Write forty, eighty and twenty-one carefully.

Check this

Have got and have are two patterns. Ask Have you got milk? or Do you have milk? Avoid Do you have got milk? Write forty, without a u.

Put the idea into practice

1. Identify the subject before choosing have or has.
2. Choose a/an, a plural number phrase or a container phrase for each food.
3. Check negatives, question order and the spelling of the tens.

Remember

- Use has got with he, she and it.
- Ask Have you got...? and answer Yes, I have.
- Write forty, eighty and twenty-one carefully.

Practice - Try before checking

Answer in your notebook. Use evidence from the examples and check your sentences.

Exercise 1. Choose have or has

Complete: I ... got an apple. She ... got milk. They ... got sandwiches.

Exercise 2. Read the numbers

Write 30, 45 and 82 in words.

Exercise 3. Describe a lunch bag

Write four sentences including a negative and a number.

Exercise 4. Edit a lunch note

Correct: She have got two apple and a water. Ask whether she has an orange.

Explained answers

Exercise 1. Choose have or has

Have; has; have. She is third-person singular.

Exercise 2. Read the numbers

Thirty; forty-five; eighty-two. Compound numbers from 21 to 99 use a hyphen except the round tens.

Exercise 3. Describe a lunch bag

Example: I've got two apples. I've got a sandwich. I haven't got milk. My friend has got water. Use countable plural nouns after numbers.

Exercise 4. Edit a lunch note

She has got two apples and a bottle of water. Has she got an orange? Use has with she, plural apples after two, and a countable container for water.

Frequently asked questions

When should I use have got and has got?

Use have got with I, you, we and they, and has got with he, she and it. Ask Have you got an apple? or Has she got water? Make negatives with haven't got or hasn't got. Keep this pattern separate from Do you have...?

How do I write forty-two and eighty-one?

Write forty-two and eighty-one with a hyphen. Forty has no u, and eighty keeps the t from eight.

Is She's got the same as She is got?

No. In She's got a sandwich, 's means has. In She's hungry, 's means is. Read the words after the contraction.
