

English 1AC semester 2: revision and corrected practice test

Revise activities, likes, time, jobs and weather with a short original practice test. Try the reading, grammar and writing tasks before checking the explanations. This self-check does not certify an A1 level and does not reproduce a school examination.

Learning goals

- Organise revision by skill and meaning
- Check the main semester-two structures
- Distinguish usually from today's activity

1. What should I revise for English 1AC semester 2?

Use this pathway to revise after-school activities, likes, time, jobs, weather and the difference between routines and actions now. Complete the reading, language and writing tasks first, then use the correction to choose a topic that needs more work. Follow your teacher's sequence if your textbook differs.

Use the base verb after does or doesn't.

2. Organise revision by skill and meaning

For routines and jobs, use the present simple: She works at a school. Ask Where does she work? Keep work without s after does. Use It's with weather adjectives and at with clock times. For an action now, use be + ing: She is reading. Organise revision by mistakes rather than unit numbers alone. If questions are difficult, compare do/does with is/are. If reading is difficult, find the exact supporting phrase. If writing is difficult, plan a beginning, two details and an ending, then check one sentence at a time.

3. Check the main semester-two structures

Topic	Statement	Check
Activities and likes	He likes chess.	He doesn't like noisy games.
Time and work	She starts at eight.	Where does she work?
Weather and now	It's windy.	They are flying a kite.

4. Read Amal's Saturday profile

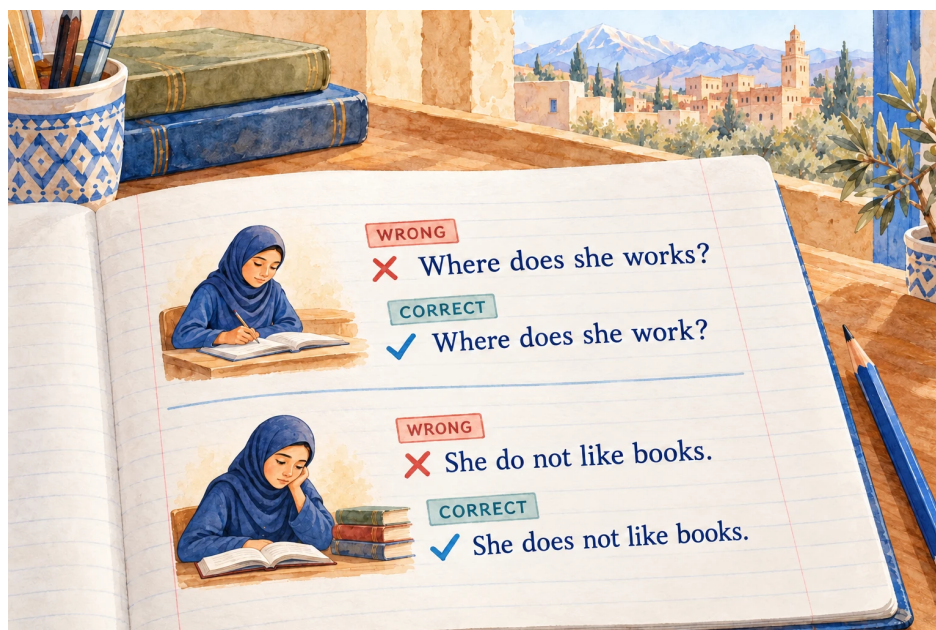

Distinguish routines from actions happening now.

Read and explain this example

It is Saturday and the weather is sunny but cool. Amal's mother works in a bookshop. She starts at nine. Amal doesn't go to school on Saturday. She usually reads in the morning. Today she is making a card for her mother. Her mother likes books and flowers, so Amal draws both on the card.

5. Distinguish usually from today's activity

A revision text can use more than one tense for a reason. Amal usually reads in the morning is a routine, while today she is making a card describes this day's activity. Her mother's job takes another present-simple sentence: She works in a bookshop. Underlining all the verbs is a start, but labelling what each one means is more useful. When you correct a sentence, keep the intended meaning as well as repairing its form.

Support reading answers and check a written paragraph in stages.

Check this

Usually reads is a routine; is making describes today's activity. Do not treat every verb in the text as the same tense. Choose a revision lesson from the meaning of your mistake.

Put the idea into practice

1. Find evidence for each reading answer before opening the correction.
2. Label a grammar sentence as a routine, current action or description.
3. Write a short special-day paragraph and check the required details.

Remember

- Use the base verb after does or doesn't.
- Distinguish routines from actions happening now.
- Support reading answers and check a written paragraph in stages.

Practice - Try before checking

Answer in your notebook. Use evidence from the examples and check your sentences.

Exercise 1. Comprehension

Where does Amal's mother work? What time does she start? Why does Amal draw flowers?

Exercise 2. Language

Correct: Where does she works? He don't like books. They is playing. It windy.

Exercise 3. Writing

Write five sentences about a special day, with weather, a time and a person's preference.

Exercise 4. Keep the intended time meaning

Correct: She usually is making a card every morning, but today she reads now. Express a daily reading habit and today's card-making activity.

Explained answers

Exercise 1. Comprehension

She works in a bookshop. She starts at nine. Amal draws flowers because her mother likes them.

Exercise 2. Language

Where does she work? He doesn't like books. They are playing. It's windy. Check auxiliary, subject agreement and be.

Exercise 3. Writing

Example: Today is my sister's birthday. It's sunny. We meet at four. She likes stories. I give her a book. Other answers are possible; check the required details and sentence grammar.

Exercise 4. Keep the intended time meaning

She usually reads in the morning, but today she is making a card. The routine uses reads; today's current activity uses is making.

Frequently asked questions

What should I revise for English 1AC semester 2?

Use this pathway to revise after-school activities, likes, time, jobs, weather and the difference between routines and actions now. Complete the reading, language and writing tasks first, then use the correction to choose a topic that needs more work. Follow your teacher's sequence if your textbook differs.

Will my textbook use exactly these semester-two unit numbers?

It may not. Use the theme and the skill you are studying in class, and follow your teacher's instructions when the order differs.

Can I use this revision as an A1 certificate?

No. This is informal revision. A recognised level assessment requires its own test conditions and criteria.
